1-POINT QUIZ

ボックス内の例を見て、ルールを考えて、クイズを解いて見ましょう。

LOOK FORWARD TO and DREAD are opposites.
Look at the examples below:

- ① My kids look forward to Halloween every year.
- ② I'm looking forward to seeing my cousins next week.
- ③ I dread summer every year. It's so hot and humid here in Nagoya.
- ④ I'm dreading taking my driver's test again. I did so badly last time.

What's the Rule?

Circle the correct answer.

- ① [Look forward to • Dread] means "anticipate eagerly." = ～を楽しみにする
- ② [Look forward to • Dread] means "anticipate with fear or anxiety." = ～のことを考えて気がめいる[重くなる], ～をしたくない, ～を嫌に思う

Note: We use

look forward to / dread + noun [名詞] or

look forward to / dread + -ing [動名詞]

Circle the best answer in each sentence.

1. I [look forward to • dread] filing my taxes every year. It takes so long!
2. I used to [look forward to • dread] my birthday when I was young. It was fun!
3. We [look forward to • dread] cherry blossom season every spring.
4. I [look forward to • dread] meeting you at the conference next month.
5. I'm [looking forward to • dreading] giving my speech in class tomorrow. I get so nervous!
6. I'm [looking forward to • dreading] telling my parents that I've quit college.
7. We're [looking forward to • dreading] traveling again after we get vaccinated.
8. Many people [look forward to • dread] going to the dentist's, but I don't mind it.
9. I can't wait for summer. What season do you [look forward to • dread] most?
10. She's [looking forward to • dreading] going to college but [looks forward to • dreads] leaving her friends.

- file one's taxes
= 確定申告をする
- not mind A = Aは嫌じゃない

Wanna Bet?

George used to be very skinny and had unruly hair. On top of that, he wore glasses and braces. And because his family moved three times while he was in junior high and high school, he always felt like the new kid. For these reasons, George was very shy, especially around girls.

But then, little by little, George changed! He got his braces off. He started working out and put on some muscle. He started wearing contacts. And when he started his first job after college, his older sister gave him some tips on how to control his naturally curly hair. Now George is a good-looking guy!

In fact, George is so good looking that people often mistake him for a model or an actor. And women he doesn't know often come up and talk to him. George is still shy, though, so all of this attention makes him very nervous. He never knows what to say to strangers, and sometimes he gets so flustered that he gets his own name wrong.

One evening, George was having dinner at a sports bar on his way home from work when a beautiful woman walked up to the bar and stood next to him. George kept his eyes on the TV, which was showing a golf tournament. He hoped she would just order a drink and go away.

After she ordered her drink, she turned to George and said, "Do you think he'll make the next shot?"

George panicked inside but tried to stay calm on the outside. "Of course!" he said. "He's Tiger Woods! He never misses."

The woman said, "Wanna bet?"

George had never bet money on anything before, but he said, "Sure. How much?"

"I bet you a beer that he'll miss the shot," she said confidently.

"You're on!" said George.

When it was Tiger's turn, he missed the shot. George said, "Oh, well. You win some, you lose some. What kind of beer do you want?"

The woman said, "I can't let you buy me a beer. I saw this tournament earlier today when it was live, so I knew he would miss it."

George said, "I did, too. But I didn't think he would miss it again."

Susan's Diary

◇ Monday, April 19th (10:05 p.m.)

Nothing exciting happened today. Something a little weird did, though. In the evening, I heard bottles being thrown into the recycling basket in front of my apartment building. It reminded me that tomorrow is recyclable garbage day, so I gathered up the few empty glass jars I had and took them out. On my way back into the building, I stopped to check my mailbox. Just then, a woman I didn't know came into the entrance area and threw something away in our garbage can. She told me she had picked up some litter in front of my building. She seemed nervous. I thanked her for picking it up and went inside. Ten minutes later, when I took my empty cans out, I ran into the same woman in the entrance again! She seemed surprised to see me again and asked me, "Who manages this building?" I told her the name of the building management company and pointed to the sign on the wall. I was polite to her, but I thought it was weird.

◇ Friday, April 23rd (11:05 p.m.)

Today there was a note above the mailboxes from the building management company. It reminded us to follow the rules when throwing away garbage. The woman I saw on Monday must have called them! She must be the garbage monitor in my neighborhood.

Notes and examples:

weird = 変, おかしい, 変わった

- ① That was a weird movie. I didn't understand the ending. Was it all a dream?
- ② A: The new guy seems a little weird.
B: I know. He doesn't make eye contact when he talks to you.

remind A = Aに思い出させる

- ② A: My mom is going to stop by tonight.
B: OK. Oh, that reminds me, Mother's Day is next weekend!

jar = (広口の) 瓶, かんめ

- ① Honey, can you open this jar of pickles?
- ② A: Get some milk and a jar of jam, too.
B: OK. Strawberry or blueberry jam?

litter = (散らかした) ごみ

- ① There was litter all over the beach.
- ② A: What did you guys do on Sunday?
B: We and some other volunteers picked up litter in the park.

run into A = 偶然Aに出会う, Aとばったり会う

- ① If you run into Tom, tell him to call me.
- ② A: Did you go to the festival?
B: Yes. And we ran into your sister there!

must do / must have done

= 〜に違いない / 〜したに違いない

- ① There's a police officer. Let's ask him. He must know where the place is.
- ② A: My cat didn't eat that new food.
B: She must not have liked it.

*make eye contact = 目を合わせる

C: (b), it was before the pandemic, so it was the summer of 2019.

S: What made you go there?

C: My friends and I got invited on a tour, but (c) we went there for was to eat oysters.

S: Is that what Toba is known for?

C: Yes, oysters and pearls. This next one is us on the chartered bus. You can see other people drinking, but it was too early for us to drink!

S: What time was it?

C: It was 8:30 a.m. when we left Nagoya! This one is of Ise Shrine. We stopped there on the way. After that went to the oyster place.

S: Oh, good. You got your oysters!

C: Yes. Oh, my gosh, we ate so much. They had a 90-minute (d) of fried oysters, boiled oysters, oyster rice, oyster soup ... (e)!

S: Sounds awesome!

C: It was. But we ate so much that we slept all the way home.

HOW MUCH DO YOU UNDERSTAND?

Read the paragraph and answer the TRUE/FALSE (本ならT嘘ならF) questions. Answers on p.11.

As we try to get in shape for summer, fitness apps and posters at the gym remind us to “stay hydrated!” They often specify to drink 8 glasses, or two liters, of water per day. But do we really need to drink that much? Probably not. Our water needs are based on how much water we lose, and that depends on three main factors—our weight, the environmental temperature, and our activity levels. Let’s look at each of these. First, the bigger we are, the more water we need. That’s just common sense. The other two have to do with how much water we lose. The hotter it is where we are, the more we sweat. Likewise, the more we exercise, the more water we lose. Because these factors differ from person to person and can vary for each person from day to day, there is no one-size-fits-all amount of water that we must drink per day.

- T • F 1. We all need to drink at least 8 glasses of water, but some people need more.
- T • F 2. Under the same conditions, people who weigh more need more water than people who weigh less.
- T • F 3. You may need more water one day and less another day depending on how much you exercise that day.

• get in shape = 体を鍛える

• common sense = 常識

Risa (R) gets to work and Mika (M) is there.

M: You're late. That's not like your type.

R: I called Mr. Ito and let him know I'd be late.

M: What happened? Did you sleep too much?

R: No. I got up early, actually. I woke up to a strange sound. At first I thought it was my cat, but then I saw him sleeping with me.

M: Where was the sound coming from?

R: I couldn't tell. I listened and tried to think it, but I gave up and went to find the cause.

M: Well, did you find it?

R: Yes. It was water leaking from the ceiling onto the table right next to my laptop. I moved it right away so it wouldn't get wet.

M: Quick thinking! Did you call a plumber?

R: No, I called the building superintendent. He and a plumber arrived soon after that. They went up to my neighbor's place and found the problem. It was a pipe in her kitchen. They were fixing it when I left.

M: Then it'll be fixed by the time you get home. That's good.

R: And it's a good thing I'm a light sleeper! My computer could have been ruined!

★ can tell = 分かる

★ a plumber = 配管工, 水道屋さん

★ be ruined = 駄目になる, 破壊される

Did you find all 3 of the mistakes?
Let's check and practice the phrases:

① not like your type → not like you

❑ You forgot your dentist appointment? That's not like you. You must be so busy!

㊦ A: I don't feel like going out tonight.

B: You don't? That's not like you. Are you catching a cold or something?

② sleep too much → oversleep

❑ I'd better set my alarm. If I oversleep tomorrow, I'll miss an important meeting.

㊦ A: Why were you late to class?

B: Because I overslept.

A: You should have gone to be earlier.

③ think it → figure it out

❑ That movie was boring. It was a mystery, but I figured it out in the first ten minutes.

㊦ A: Is there a way to set a recurring alarm?

B: I'm sure there is, but I don't have time to figure it out right now. I'll help you later.
