Open It and Find Out

Beth is retired, but she used to work as a salesclerk at a department store. She liked her job because she loved talking with customers and helping them find what they needed. She used to have to dress up for work, but now she usually wears a T-shirt and jeans. She doesn't want to wear her good clothes when she's just cooking, cleaning, gardening, or walking her dog.

Last month, her two grown sons came over to celebrate her birthday. They each gave her a gift. She opened the one from her older son and said, "Thank you, Josh! You know I can always use a new T-shirt!"

Then her younger son, Kyle, gave her a box and said, "If you like that, then you'll like this."

"It's . . . another red T-shirt! Thank you! You know I'll wear it."

Before she opened the next box, the one from her husband, Mark, she said, "Let me guess. Is it a T-shirt?"

Mark said, "Open it and find out!"

Sure enough, it was. And it was red, too.

"Maybe we should have talked about it before we bought our gifts," Mark said.

"Oh, it's OK!" Beth said. "I don't need any gifts at all, but I will wear these for sure."

A few days later, Beth had to run to a local discount store to pick up some things. She was wearing jeans and one of her new red T-shirts. While she was shopping, a woman asked her where the candles were. She knew, so she showed her where they were. A few minutes later, a different woman asked her where the restrooms were. Beth pointed her in the right direction. Then another woman asked if Beth could get something down from the top shelf for her. Beth was tall, so she easily got it down and handed it to her.

Then a man, who was wearing a red T-shirt similar to Beth's, approached her and said, "Excuse me, ma'am. Do you work here?"

"No. I'm sorry I don't," Beth said.

"Well, would you like to?" he asked. "I'm the manager, and I noticed that you're great with customers!"

Beth filled out a job application. She'll start working there part-time next week!

Susan's Diary

Monday, November 15th (10:05 p.m.)

I saw Tosi today. She told me about her weekend. She and her daughter's family went to Takeda Castle Ruins. I had never heard of that place so she told me all about it. The castle ruins are on a mountain peak in Asago City, Hyogo Prefecture. People go there to see the sea of clouds, which can only be seen early in the morning — from sunrise to about 8:00. The best time of year to see this phenomenon is in October and November, but it doesn't happen every day. Only when the sky is clear, there is almost no wind, and the temperature is just right do clouds form around the peak, making the castle ruins look like an island in a sea of clouds or a castle floating in the sky. That's why some people call this place the Machu Picchu of Japan. So, after checking the forecast, Tosi planned to go there on Saturday night. They left Nagoya at midnight, drove all night, and arrived at the foot of the mountain at 3:40 a.m. At 4:30, they all started walking up Ritsuunkyo, a mountain near the castle ruins that is supposed to be the best place for viewing the sea of clouds. When they got to a good place, they waited for the clouds to spring up. It got colder and colder, and by morning it was very cold. Unfortunately, it wasn't cold enough for the clouds to appear, and they didn't get to see the sea of clouds. Tosi said they'll try again next year and every year until they see the fantastic sea of clouds show.

That's Not ENGLISH!

Kana (K) is talking to her husband, Tony (T).

K: Do you make New Year's resolutions?

T: Sometimes. Why ask me?

K: I was reading people's comments online about resolutions, and it got me thinking.

T: How about?

K: About my goals for next year. Many people said they wanted to lose weight, become more flexible or build muscle.

T: Yeah. Those are common. People often say they'll save money or quit smoking, too.

K: Yes. I saw lots of those resolutions, too. The interesting ones were the ones about how people want to change inside.

T: What do you mean?

K: Well, some people said they wanted to be less fearful, less *greedy or less *arrogant. Others said they wanted to be more *thankful or more *patient.

T: Oh, that reminds me of something I need to do — stop *procrastinating! I always put off doing things until just before.

K: That's a good one. I think I'm going to have a long list for next year!

* greedy = 貪欲な * arrogant = 傲慢な * thankful = 感謝して
