T.P. Syndrome

Carol was in her late 50s. She loved playing tennis, doing aerobics, and jogging. She was very active until she hurt her knee. Her doctor told her to stay off of it. Every time she went for a checkup, she hoped her doctor would tell her she could start exercising again. She couldn't wait for her knee to get better.

A few months after she hurt her knee, Carol started getting stomachaches. They usually came at the end of the work day. She tried to ignore them, but they got worse as time went on. During one of her checkups, she told the nurse about it.

"I know I'm here because of my knee," Carol said as the nurse was checking her blood pressure, "but I've been getting stomachaches lately."

"I see. I'll tell the doctor," said the nurse. "OK, now step on the scale for me ... Thank you. Have a seat and the doctor will be in in a moment," she said.

When the doctor came in, he said, "Good morning. I hear you've been having stomachaches. How bad are they?" he asked.

"Hm ... well, around noon, it's uncomfortable, but by the end of the day it's so bad that I can't wait to go home, change into comfy clothes, and lie down."

"And does that help?" the doctor asked.

"Yes, it usually does," she said.

"And do you get them on the weekends, or only during the workweek?" he asked.

"Now that you mention it, I don't get them on weekends at all," Carol said, sounding surprised. "Do you think my office is making me sick?"

"No, but have you bought any new clothes lately?" he asked.

"New clothes?" Carol repeated. She was confused at his strange question. "No, I haven't. Why?"

"OK, I think I know what the problem is," he said. "You have T.P. Syndrome."

"I've never heard of that. What is it? Is it serious?"

"Well, according to your chart, you've gained 10 pounds, which has caused what I call Tight Pants Syndrome. In other words, your pants are too tight, and they're putting pressure on your abdomen. The good news is that you have two treatment options: you can either lose weight or buy new pants."

hurt A = 痛める

When I was little, I watched families in Christmas movies drive to a farm, pick out a tree, cut it down, take it home, and then decorate the tree together while listening (a)_____ Christmas music. It looked so fun! But my family lived in an apartment in the city, far from the tree farms, so we always had a fake tree. (b)_____ college, I rented a little house, so I decided to get a real tree (c)_____ a farm. I didn't have a husband or kids to go Christmas tree hunting (d)_____, so I took my dog, TJ. When we got there, I just stared at the scene. It had snowed the night before, and the trees were so perfectly covered in snow that they looked fake! TJ couldn't wait to start hunting for our tree. He smelled every tree until we came to the perfect one and we both stopped. It was big and fat, and it had no holes in it! "This one?" I asked, and TJ barked with approval. Next was the hard part—I had to cut it down. I used a saw that I had borrowed (e)_____ a neighbor, and it was harder than I had expected. It took a long time, and my fingers got really cold. Finally, I cut through the trunk, and the tree fell! Then I had to drag it back to my car. TJ didn't help at all, but when I got to my car, a man working at the farm helped me tie it to the roof of my car. TJ and I sang along to Christmas songs as we drove (f)_____ home. When we got there, I put the tree in a bucket of water and left it (g)_____ the garage. I was too tired to bring it in and decorate it that day.

- fake A = 偽のA • stare at A = Aをじっと見る
- ~ with approval = 同意して~する • saw = のこぎり

Susan's Diary

★Wednesday, November 29th (10:05 p.m.)

My friend's family got an Elf on the Shelf. Her son, Lucas, is three years old, and this Thanksgiving, his aunt gave him the book The Elf on the Shelf. She read it to him, and he loved it! The book tells the story of little elves that are sent by Santa Claus to check on kids and report their good and bad behavior to Santa during the holiday season. The elves look like dolls during the day, but when everyone is asleep, they come alive! After Lucas's aunt read the book to him, she said, "Look!" and pointed to an elf sitting on a bookshelf. Lucas was so excited! According to the book, when an elf first comes to a home, the family has to choose a name for him or her. Lucas's parents gave him some ideas, and Lucas chose the name Sparkle. According to the book, the elf watches over the child or children in the home and goes back to the North Pole every night during the holiday season. He or she returns to the home before the family wakes up every morning and hides in a new spot. The family has fun looking for the elf every morning. There is one rule that everyone has to follow—they cannot touch the elf! If they do, the elf will lose his or her magic and Santa might think the family has forgotten about him. So far, Lucas has found Sparkle on top of his dresser, on the curtain rod in the living room, on the mantel, under the sofa, and in the dog's bed. And so far, Lucas hasn't touched him. This tradition is relatively new. The book came out in 2005, so we didn't have the Elf on the Shelf when I was growing up. I don't have kids, but if I did, I don't think I would get an Elf on the Shelf. It sounds like fun for the kids, and it might make them behave, but I would get tired of thinking of a new hiding place for the elf. Plus I might forget to move him or her every night between Thanksgiving and Christmas!

It's almost the end of the year, so it's time for osoji, which is literally "big cleaning," but English (a) _____ might call it "deep cleaning" or "thorough cleaning." Without looking at the calendar, I know it's time for osoji because there are displays of (b) _____ products at stores, the osoji checklist is posted on the wall at work, and the news is showing clips of temples, shrines and castles preparing for osoji. Everybody does osoji, and I think it's a great custom. It feels good to declutter and clean the whole house. When I lived with a family in the States, they didn't clean in December. They were busy decorating for Christmas, buying and wrapping (c) _____, and making cookies. However, around the end of March, my host mom started doing what she called "spring cleaning." I realized Americans did their osoji at a different time of (d) _____! I told my host mom about the Japanese custom of osoji! Unfortunately, I didn't know much about it at the time, so I couldn't tell her much. Since then I have learned that osoji is a very old (e) _____ that started hundreds of years ago as something called susuharai, which means "sweep away the soot." In those days, they believed they had to clean shrines, temples, castles or homes so that they could welcome the god of the (f) _____ year. Now, everybody in Japan does osoji even if they don't know the religious beginnings of the tradition. At the very least, they declutter and clean more than usual. But some people, like me, go further and fix anything broken around the house. This year I will fix the faucet that drips a little, fix a door that sticks, get some of my shoes (g) _____, and wash my car! I think osoji is a great way to say goodbye to the old year's negativity and welcome good fortune in the upcoming year. It gives me a fresh start!

HOW MUCH DO YOU UNDERSTAND?

Read the paragraph and answer the TRUE/FALSE (本当ならT嘘ならF) questions. Answers on p. 11.

You know you shouldn't eat too many sweets, but do you know why? The obvious reason is that they are high in calories and low in nutrients. But there are other reasons to cut back on sweets. Here are three of the major ones. First, sugar suppresses the *immune system, which needs all the support it can get during the winter cold and flu season. Second, sugar causes excess *inflammation, which promotes aging and disease. And finally, there's an link between a high sugar intake and higher triglycerides (fatty acids in the blood) and lower HDL ("good") cholesterol. So how much sugar is too much? The World Health Organization says sugar intake should be less than 10% of total calories, which is about 50 grams of sugar. And remember, it's a diet chronically high in sugar that is bad, not the occasional treat.

- T • F 1. Eating too much sugar can make you more likely to get sick.
- T • F 2. Those who eat high amounts of sugar look and feel younger than those who limit their sugar intake.
- T • F 3. There is no room for sweets in a healthy diet.

Did you find all 3 of the mistakes?
Let's check and practice the phrases.

Nina (N) and her coworker Mandy (M) are talking one Monday morning.

M: What did you do over the weekend?

N: I went out with a guy that my sister set me to date with.

M: Well, how was it?

N: It was OK. The restaurant he took me to had a nice *atmosphere and the food was good.

M: That's not what I meant! How did the date go? What did you think of the guy? Do you think you'll go out with him again?

N: It's pass.

M: Why? What happened?

N: It really wasn't any particular thing. He was just ... *meh. He was OK looking, but he didn't talk much, and he kept checking his text messages.

M: Oh, no. That's one of my *pet peeves.

N: Yeah. It usually doesn't mind me, but this was our first date. I think you should be *on your best behavior on a first date.

M: I agree! That's the way it should be!

- ★ atmosphere = 雰囲気
- ★ meh = 普通, 平凡
- ★ pet peeve = いら立たせること
- ★ on one's best behavior = 行儀よくする

① ~~set me to date with~~ → set me up with a A: Who was the guy I saw you with?

B: A guy my sister set me up with.

b A: Are you going out tonight?
B: Yes. I'm going out for dinner with a girl my cousin set me up with.

② ~~It's pass.~~ → I'll pass.

a A: More wine?
B: Um ... no, thanks. I'll pass.

b A: Do you want to play poker with us tomorrow night?
B: I'll pass. Last time I lost $80!

③ ~~doesn't mind me~~ → doesn't bother me

a A: Is it OK if I smoke?
B: It usually doesn't bother me, but I have a sore throat today.

b A: Is the music too loud?
B: No. Loud music doesn't bother me unless I'm trying to sleep.
